From Teacher to Student: Learning the Art of Asset Management

ARLINGTON, VA – Sunflower Systems®, the leader in enterprise asset management software and solutions, is proud to announce Catherine DiGioia-Laird’s article, From Teacher to Student: Learning the Art of Asset Management, was published in the National Property Management Association’s (NPMA) Property Professional magazine.

DiGioia-Laird’s article relates traits that made her excel in her previous profession of art education - time management, public speaking and leadership - to characteristics needed to be an educator of professionals. Asset managers and teachers are both dedicated to learning best practices by sharing ideas and evaluating what works to achieve success.
