Integration: Is It Only For Systems?

ARLINGTON, VA – Sunflower Systems®, the leader in enterprise asset management software and solutions, is proud to announce Adedamola Ademiluyi’s article, Integration: Is It Only For Systems?, was published in the National Property Management Association’s (NPMA) Property Professional magazine.

Ademiluyi’s article demonstrates that integrating systems, whether internal or external, makes a company more efficient and productive. Working together to share information and data develops CAM (Collaborative Asset Management) which can lead to defining a process and establishing a similar mindset, showing a positive bottom line, and training employees on a regular basis.
