SUNFLOWER TO SHARE EXPERTISE IN 12 NES SESSIONS

The NPMA's National Education Seminar (NES) is the premier educational opportunity for property professionals.

ARLINGTON, Virginia. May, 2008 – Sunflower Systems, the leading provider of asset management solutions and software, announces that 9 of its employees have been selected to provide educational programming at the NPMA National Education Seminar (NES) in Reno-Sparks, NV. According to the NPMA, NES is the largest meeting of personal property and fixed-asset management professionals in the international community. NES provides attendees with important educational information and an opportunity to network with peers in the industry.

Each presenter has been selected for their leadership in the subject matter and involvement in furthering educational opportunities for property professionals. The following Sunflower employees will be presenting educational seminars on topics including:

Jim Dieter, CPPM, CF: “EMPM (ASTM E2452) Self Assessment Users Group”

Robert King, CPPS, “Real Property: How changes in the Real Property industry are impacting Personal Property”

Nicola Van Cuylenburg, CPPS: “Using Performance Metrics To Achieve Strategic Business Results”

Scott Hopkins, CPPS: “Change Management: The Under-Appreciated Factor”

Lana El Eryan, CPPS: “Planning a Physical Inventory”

Jim Dieter, CPPM, CF: “E2608 Standard Practice for an Equipment Control Matrix”

Ben Folsom, CPPS: “Migrating Property Data: Opportunities, Risks, Tradeoffs”

Mike Pacini, CPPS: “Benefits of Mobile Computing to Lifecycle Asset Management”

Betsy Lombardo, CPPS: “Property Going “Green”: The Role of Environmental Awareness in Property Management”

Jim Dieter, CPPM, CF: “Cradle-to-Cradle: In Search of Sustainable Property Management”

Brandon Kriner, CPPM “Voluntary Consensus Standards: From Theory to Practice”

Jim Dieter, CPPM, CF: “A Beginners Guide to Self Assessments, Using the Equipment Management Process Maturity Model”

Sunflower employees are consistently seen as part of the property community and are proud to have the opportunity to share their knowledge and experiences. Sunflower employees are committed to being part of the industry and are deeply involved with NPMA activities.

Valerie Rovine, Vice President of Professional Development at Sunflower states, “NES is the leading forum for generating new insights and fostering cutting-edge practices in the asset management arena. We are very excited about the opportunity to exchange ideas on the key challenges our community is facing and present innovative solutions for driving the industry forward.”

This year’s conference will be held in Reno-Sparks, NV and attendees represent a wide range of organizations including universities, federal, state and local governments and private industries. For more information about the conference please visit <http://www.npmanes.org/>.
